Forgotten history: Ther	Before you apply for online access to your record, there are some other things to consider. Forgotten history: There may be something you have forgotten about in your record that you might find upsetting.

This may occur before you have spoken to your doctor or while the surgery is closed and you cannot contact them. If this happens, contact your surgery as soon as possible.

Choosing to share your information with someone: It's up to you whether you share your information with others, perhaps family members or carers. It's your responsibility to keep the information safe and secure.

Coercion: If you think you may be pressured into revealing details from your patient record to someone else against your will, it is best that you do not register for access at this time.

Misunderstood information: Your medical record is designed to be used by clinical professionals to ensure that you receive the best possible care. Some of the information within your medical record may be technical, written by specialists and not easily understood. If you require further clarification, please contact the surgery for a clearer explanation. Information about someone else: If you spot something in the record that is not about you or notice any other errors, please log out of the system immediately and contact the practice as soon as possible.
